Discussion was rife yesterday and last night as to probable candidates in the election to be held in 1917, and predictions were freely made that the next lection would see the lines rather sharply drawn between the west, on one side, and the east and south on the other. Mrs. George Thacher Guernsey, state regent of Kansas, who was Mrs. William Cumming Story's unsuccessful opponent in this year's election, is believed to have the best chance to succeed Mrs. Story as affairs stand at this

John Miller Horton of Buffalo, and who was one of Mrs. Guernsey's supporters this year, is expected to announce her candidacy in a short time. Friends of Mrs. Charles B. Bryan of Tennessee say she is certain to enter the race. Another probable candidate, according to friends. is Mrs. George Maynard Minor of Connecticut.

Mrs. Bryan and Mrs. Minor are counted among Mrs. Story's loyal adherents.

Mrs. Bryan and Mrs. Minor are counted among Mrs. Story's loyal adherents, and the friends of each say they may expect the aid of the administration, provided Mrs. Story makes no effort to bring about the extension of her present term of office. A provision of the constitution of the Daughters of the constitution of the Daughters of the American Revolution, it is stated, prohibits a third elective term for the president general; but it was freely observed yesterday that if the proposed constitutional amendment extending the term of the president general to three, or even four, years passes either may be made to have the amendment made retroactive, so as to become operative with the incumbent in office when the amendment is adopted. Final action on the proposed amendment cannot be taken until the congress of 1917.

Mrs. Guernsey to Fight On. In a statement issued after the close of the congress yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Guernsey said she intended to continue her efforts to bring about certain needed reforms in the conduct of the society's affairs, notwithstanding her defeat for president general this Among the reforms demanded by the Kansas state regent is the substitution of quarterly meetings of the national board for the present system of holding such meetings each month. Board members who live at a great distance from Washington, Mrs. Guernsey said, are unable to attend meetings each month, which practically leaves the control of the society's affairs in the hands of those members living in

Attention to business and elimination

Attention to business and elimination of personalities and disputes at the annual congresses, she continued, would make it possible to transact all necessary business of the national board under a system of quarterly meetings.

She asserted that she would also continue her light for a single three-year term for the president general, vice presidents general and some of the other national officers, such officers being declared ineligible for a second term. Lincoln's Gettysburg Speech.

In his incomparable speech at Gettyshurg President Lincoln appealed to his countrymen to consecrate themselves to the unfinished task that lay before them; that a "government of the people, by the people and for the people, might not perish from the earth." That task is still unfinished and it is the duty of every citizen to carefully study the principles of government, the methods of government and issues as they arise, and then give to his country the benefit of his judgment and his conscience. To this end he should not only express himself at elections, but faithfully attend primaries and conventions where candidates are chosen and policies enunciated.

The government being the reaches. In his incomparable speech at Get-dates are chosen and policies enunciated.

The government being the people's business, it necessarily follows that its operations should be at all times open to the public view. Publicity is therefore as essential to honest administration as freedom of speech is to representative government. "Equal rights to all and special privileges to none" is the maxim which should control in all departments of government.

Each individual finds his greatest security in the intelligence and happicurity in the intelligence and happiness of his fellows—the welfare of each being the concern of all, and he each being the concern of all, and he should therefore exert himself to the utmost to improve conditions and to elevate the level upon which all stand.

While scrupulousuy careful to live up to his responsibilities, the citizen should never forget that the larger part of every human life is lived outside of the domain of government, and that he renders the largest service to others when he brings himself into harmony with the law of God, who has made service the measure of greatness.

Effect in New York.

Dissecting the bearing of the suit upon politics, it is found that whatever it may be on national and presidential affairs, it has immediate importance in relation to New York state politics. It is said that the outcome of the trial may determine who is to be boss in New York state, and who is to be boss in New York state, and who will influence the make-up of the New York delegation to the convention in 1216.

Politicians declare that if Barnes loses the suit he may be forced to relinquish his hold on the machine, in which event there is no doubt in their minds that Col. Roosevelt will attempt to seize the leadership. If Barnes is vindicated of the colonel's charges of affiliation with alieged alliance of crooked politics and crooked business, it is thought that no one in New York will have the temerity to question his leadership, and a connounces that an American banking group has taken $10,000,000 of the nine months' imperial exchequer bonds and placed them among their customers.
